Scattered Showers Improve The Crop Picture

Crop conditions have improved this past week with cloudy weather bringing scattered showers over much — but not all — of the County of Vulcan area.

Showers have ranged from "dust-settlers" to two inches or more but most districts would still benefit greatly by a general rain, although the showers received this past week have certainly been welcome and in many cases have saved fall crops from serious deterioration.

Tuesday's outlook was for continued cloudy weather and showers.

Flowers Ruined By Vandals

Complaints have been received this past week from residents whose attempts to beautify their homes and yards have been hindered by vandals. In one front door plant-box a beautiful iris was found to have been cut off by a knife or scissors one evening last week.

At another home a pick-up truck was ransacked during the night, and from another resident comes the complaint of persons riding horses on boulevards and sidewalks, leaving dirt and manure to be cleared up by the homeowners.

There are enough problems attached to keeping up a home. It seems a shame these should be added to by such careless negligence.

RACE MEET QUEEN
ELAINE AYOUNGMAN

Crowned as queen of the Lake McGregor Race Meet this year was Elaine Ayounman of Gleichen, a 19-year-old Indian girl who is a student at Western Canada High School, Calgary. The two other candidates in the queen contest, Jo-Ann Lahd of Queenstown and Donna Maronda of Lomond, were her attendants.

At High River

Vulcan County Jr. High Wins S.C.D. Track Meet

On Saturday, June 6, about 40 students representing the Vulcan County Jr. High travelled to High River to compete in the South Central District Track and Field Meet. Students from Milo, Champion and Vulcan made up the representatives.

Vulcan County made a total of 112 points, Drumheller Rural made 94 points and Wheatland County made 45 points. Other participants were from Mountain View, Foot-hills and Calgary Rural. Many new records were set showing much keener competition this year than last. This victory is also an indication of the team work shown by the Vulcan County Jr. High students.

Commerce Opens New Bank

The Vulcan branch of the Imperial Bank of Commerce opened its new premises to the public last Saturday. In future, your chances of obtaining a loan won't likely be affected by this change but if you are turned down it will be in the newest, most pleasant surroundings in Southern Alberta.

Open House to over 200 friends and visitors was held Saturday afternoon and in attendance, in addition to local bank staff, were three district officials. Shown above from left to right are Jack Westbrook, Business Development Manager for the Alberta region; A. C. Johnson, Regional Superintendent; and Vulcan manager R. W. (Bert) Hanley. With back to the camera is Advocate publisher R. C. R. Munro and facing him is Skeez Christensen while in the background along the counter are Stan Scales and Bob Willard.

Other bank officials present at the opening were P. A. (Pat) Thomson of Calgary, Chief Inspector (Loans) for the Alberta region, and D. S. (Doug) Paris of High River. Both are former managers of the Vulcan branch.

The bank follows the modern pattern of design now familiar with such institutions and brings a new innovation of a night-depository for businessmen and envelope slot and adequate parking for staff and customers at the rear of the building.

Constructed at a cost of approximately $72,000, including building, vault, and complete furnishings throughout, the bank has facilities for three tellers along the back wall and a full length of counter space fronts a row of four desks along the north wall. Down from the manager's office are staff bathrooms, a stationery room and lunch room complete with sink, hot plate and kitchen suite.

Attracting much attention were the beautiful drapes hung over windows which covered most of the street front and 22 feet along the south side. They are a New Torina orange shade and match the painted area of the walls which is of Elephant Tusk shade.

and the fabric covered portions done in Taiwan Curry shade.

Counters are of white arborite and desks are mahogany construction.

The bank is 45' x 38' in the working area with an additional 16' x 22' which accommodates the vault.

Large Crowd, Good Weather

Races Successful Despite Accidents

(By Tom Primrose, Western Editor, The Calgary Albertan)

"What would it have been like here if it had been Friday the 13th, instead of Saturday the 13th?"

This was the question asked by some of the officials at the 10th annual race meet held at the Lake McGregor Memorial Park, Milo, Saturday when two horses were killed, nine riders were unhorsed and six casualties were taken to Vulcan Hospital within an hour of the start of the afternoon program.

But capricious luck at the same time came up with ideal weather conditions, a record attendance and a winning horse in the feature race which didn't have any papers to indicate it was of derby calibre.

The difficulties began with the third race of the day, open saddle horse race, when two horses crashed head on in the backstretch and were instantly killed. The collision came about when the horses were turned on the backstretch to return on the route. A horse ridden by Pee-wee Collins of Blackie failed to make the turn and crashed a horse owned by Bruce Nobbs of Dawson Creek. The Nobbs horse was ridden by Jim Salisbury who was not seriously injured. Pee-wee Wilson, riding a horse called 88 for Clayton Clingman of Blackie, received a broken shoulder and broken pelvis.

Immediately afterwards 10 horses were entered in the three-quarter mile race and in a pile-up at almost the same place in the backstretch, seven riders were unhorsed.

From the pile-up three riders were taken to hospital in Vulcan, Roddy Haynes of Taber, Smoky Wilson of Gleichen and George Kelly of Gleichen. The three riders were badly shaken but were later reported not seriously hurt.

While first-aid workers were sorting out the injured from the two races Reg Glass of High River was kicked in the mouth by a horse being saddled in the race paddock. Glass lost several teeth, received a severely cut lip and was taken to hospital in Vulcan for treatment.

The remainder of the program was run off without anything out of the ordinary happening other than the loss of a rear wheel in the chuckwagon races.

However, there was another upset when Sonny, a dark horse referred to as a "coldblood" swept in to a fairly easy victory in the McGregor Derby, one and one-eighth mile, feature race of the day. The horse was owned and ridden by 17-year-old Levona Lahd of Queenstown. The winner was followed in first and second place by Joker, owned by Jim Jensen of Bassano and Breathless Bud, owned by Eresman Brothers of Arrowwood.

The Saturday program was highlighted by a parade in Milo which wound up at the park. Another feature of the morning parade was the crowning of Elaine Ayounman (Continued On Page 12)

REPORT FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

LAWRENCE E. KINDT M. P.

In the six years that I have represented Macleod, no public issue has become so heated or has developed such nation-wide interest as the present controversy over the Canadian Flag.

The design of the Prime Minister's proposed new flag for Canada has now been made public and no doubt there are many very different points of view as to the merits of the design itself, but the real issues that have stirred up such violent reactions all over Canada are:

(1) The argument that the maple leaf is not a national emblem. The Ontario maple grows naturally on only about 6% of Canada's total area. Our great U.S. neighbor to the south has many more maple trees than Canada, extending over a much wider area and growing for a longer season. The maple leaf has been used as a badge for the armed forces and consequently popularized. This, it is pointed out, is no argument for its inclusion on the flag. England for instance, fought wars for centuries under the rose as an emblem, but it is not on the Union Jack flag. Those arguing that the maple leaf is not a national emblem say that to 80% of the country a maple tree is, and will remain, a pure theory—or a museum specimen.

(2) Why is a change from our official flag (the Red Ensign which Canadian soldiers have fought and died under) necessary at the present time?

The Prime Minister claims that in the last election campaign (1963) he promised Canadians that they would have a new "distinctive" flag within two years of his taking office and that accordingly, he (the Prime Minister) is merely carrying out his election promises as expeditiously as possible. This explanation seems strange in view of the fact that the Prime Minister himself appointed a Royal Commission on bi-culturalism and bilingualism which is at present holding hearings all over Canada for the purpose (among other things) of recommending suitable national symbols such as a flag and an anthem. This commission has as yet neither completed its hearings nor made any recommendations. Why then bring the flag issue before Parliament before this Royal Commission (costing millions of dollars) makes its report?

Another explanation of the Prime Minister's action is that he sincerely believes that the introduction of a flag without the Union Jack (which we are told is poison in Quebec) will go a long way towards settling the highly strained relations between Quebec and the rest of Canada. If this is so, the question may again be asked—but why now? Is there that much urgent pressure from Quebec to bring in a flag before the Royal Commission makes its report? The answer would still seem to be in the negative.

(3) Let us now examine the third main point at issue, viz: Should the Union Jack be retained as part of any new distinctive Canada flag?

This is, of course, a highly personal and individual point of view and I have heard literally dozens of reasons why the Union Jack should or should not be retained in a Canadian flag. Some of these reasons are logical ones and others are based on emotion and tradition. For example, some people feel that any national flag should incorporate symbols of our country's origin, history, traditions and institutions (I do myself) and that for this reason the Union Jack (and indeed the fleur de lis) should have some place on a Canadian flag. Others feel that we should cut the links with the past and that a Canadian flag should incorporate some color or symbol that looks to the future and represent all of Canada. These views are in most cases very sincerely held by their proponents.

In the Province of Quebec it seems clear that the Union Jack is not acceptable as part of any Canadian flag. While it is quite true that under the Union Jack, the people of French Canada were guaranteed their language, religion and civil law, nevertheless the

Recreational Areas—

Ratepayers of the Village of Champion and of the rural area of which Champion is the trading and recreational centre will vote next Monday, June 22, on a by-law to approve or disapprove the setting up of a Champion Recreational Area to be administered by a seven-member recreational board.

Although other recreational areas have been established at different points in the province, it is understood that this is the first time a plebiscite has been held to approve the establishment of a joint (town and rural area) recreation board.

Co-ordination of recreational-cultural activities, whether by voluntary co-operation or by the establishment of a joint recreation board, appears to be most desirable in any town and district. The latter plan, setting up a recreation area and committee, means that all ratepayers involved — rather than just a few — contribute to the costs of recreational and cultural activities. This is fair and just in that all the residents concerned certainly benefit to some extent by a properly planned and co-ordinated program.

A properly developed and administered recreational-cultural program should be of great value and benefit to the residents of the Champion district, and approval of the by-law is necessary if such a program is to be instituted. Results of the vote will be awaited with interest by residents of other towns and districts in the county.

Reid Hill W.I.

Mrs. John French and Mrs. Earl Deal were co-hostesses for the June meeting of the Reid Hill W.I., held at the French home Thursday, June 11. Mrs. Kuykendall was the lucky winner of the punctuality draw.

The president, Mrs. French was in the chair and conducted the meeting assisted by acting secretary, Mrs. J. C. MacMillan. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Kuykendall. Correspondence was very light and dealt largely with routine matters.

Plans were made for the branch to serve tea at the opening of the new Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, on Saturday. A committee was named to be in charge of arrangements.

A sum of money was voted to the purchase of games or other items of entertainment, for the Peter Dawson Lodge.

Roll call was answered with My Father's Greatest Virtue and proved most interesting.

At the conclusion of the business session the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Kuykendall, who conducted a number of bingo games, which were much enjoyed.

Ladies' Swim Classes Start

(By Dale Phillips)

Monday, June 15, 1:00 p.m.; six "young" ladies poised tense and breathless outside the entrance to the swimming pool. Their eyes were branded with cautious suspicion. No words were spoken — the exchange of ominous glances was the prevailing communicative channel. The big green door clicked and swung open. The ladies tiptoed inside. The fellow behind the counter offered his assistance in a cold, harsh tone. The ladies choked and stood aghast. A short, meek, barrel-shaped felle shuffled forth and gingerly thrust a wrinkled note to the fellow: "We wish to swim in order to keep trim like Esther Williams." Ladies' swimming lessons have begun.

Adult class swimmers as well as regular class swimmers are learning a new and valued skill for the first time this season. It is a self-survival technique commonly referred to as drownproofing or survival floating. Drownproofing is to be introduced and taught at all four levels of Red Cross instruction.

Only a few hours of instruction are required by any one person with desire, irrespective of sex, age, condition, or strength, in order to stay up for hours and swim for miles. Approximately one thousand four and five year old children in the Atlanta area have stayed up one hour — swum one mile — stayed up half an hour, then swum a mile with ankles tied to the waist and the same thing with wrists tied behind the back — all fully clad. The results obtained with handicapped children are equally fantastic. Cramps and injuries are merely annoying and not dangerous to "drownproofers" because when this technique is mastered it is just as easy to stay up with only one arm as with both arms and both legs.

Traditional swimming is usually adequate for pool and dockside swimming, but where hampering clothes, cramps and injuries, choppy waves and real distances combine to drown people in lakes, rivers and oceans, why not learn a single, efficient self-survival skill?

4-H Club Notes*Berrywater 4-H Beef Club—

The Berrywater 4-H Beef Club met at the Community Centre on Saturday, June 6. A demonstration on the different ways of grooming a calf preceded the business. Leader Archie Oldfield gave a few words of advice.

The meeting opened with Rhonda Sinclair leading the 4-H pledge. Roll call was answered by the members stating what they intended to do with the monies realized from the sale of their calf. Banking was the popular answer.

Further plans and instruction on the achievement and sale were discussed. Hot chocolate, sandwiches and cake ended the evening's activities.

GREEN ACRES

CLARENCE
ROTH,
District
Agriculturist

Plant Nutrients Most Often Deficient

Nitrogen and phosphorous are the two plant nutrients most often deficient in Alberta soils. Sulphur is also lacking in some areas of the grey wooded soil zone.

The amount of elemental or pure nitrogen fertilizer required by soils can vary all the way from 10 to 40 pounds per acre, depending upon such factors as the previous crop, soil moisture content and trash cover, says A. W. Goettel, Assistant Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control with the Alberta Department of Agriculture. A heavy stubble requires more nitrogen than a light one to break down the straw and release its nitrogen for plant use.

In Alberta it is important to apply a nitrogen fertilizer prior to or during seeding because the soil is usually quite cold and low in available nitrogen during the early growing season. A fertilizer can be safely drilled in with the seed when the rate of application is less than 25 pounds of elemental nitrogen per acre. This is equivalent to about 75 pounds of ammonium nitrate (33.5-0-0) per acre. Higher rates should always be broadcast because nitrogen can affect germination if it is applied with the seed. Broadcasting should be done in the fall or prior to seeding in the spring.

An application of phosphorous to cereal crops nearly always pays dividends, according to Mr. Goettel, because most Alberta soils are in low available phosphorous. It should be drilled in with the seed because, unlike nitrogen, phosphorous does not move easily through the soil. It has to be placed within easy reach of the seed. Incidentally, a fertilizer should never be put into the seed box because it will alter the seeding rate and is likely to corrode the seed drill. A fertilizer attachment must be used for this job.

There is no danger of damaging cereal seed when recommended methods and rates of nitrogen and phosphorous are used. However, high rates of both these elements may damage flax and rape seed. The rule here is not to use more than 15 pounds per acre of either nutrient. This works out to about 30 pounds of 11-48-0 or 75 pounds of 16-20-0 per acre. Apart from the danger of damage from high rates, flax does not respond to large quantities of added nutrients.

CULTURAL and RECREATIONAL DEVELOPMENT IN THE CHAMPION AREA

It may be well at this time to review some of the factors involved in the plebiscite to be held on the Municipal levy of one mill for recreational and cultural development. There appears to be considerable misunderstanding of this subject.

The government of the Province of Alberta in an attempt to stabilize and maintain community development in this province, in 1955 passed the Cultural and Recreational Development Act and have since that time effected a number of amendments to strengthen and modernize this act.

It is a fact that the holding of the plebiscite in the Champion Community on this subject has established a precedent, in that this is the first time a community has held a vote to decide whether or not the implementation of this act is in the best interests of the citizenry.

At this time let it be recognized that it is not equitable that the people of the Village of Champion be expected to provide and maintain all the recreational facilities required to service the population surrounding this centre. In view of this, it appeared to numbers of rural and urban residents that a joint program, financed and planned in an orderly manner, could be most beneficial and desirable.

As a result of the actions of two public meetings held in Champion sometime ago, survey teams went out to test the reaction of the citizens to a proposal that, that portion of the County of Vulcan surrounding Champion raise by a levy of one mill based on the municipal assessment, a sum of money amounting to roughly $2300.

The results of the survey indicated that more than 85% of those contacted approved of the program as outlined.

There was an understanding that the ratepayers of the Village of Champion would raise a sum of about $850 based on a two mill levy on assessment.

There is no need at this time to go into all the political ramifications that have arisen to confront this project.

It is suggested that rural ratepayers involved in this plebiscite carefully consider some of the following factors.

The survival of small rural communities is no accident, but is the result of sound planning on a long range basis, with the active support of a majority of the public. Financing of community centres, libraries, youth groups and cultural activities presents a real problem in most areas.

The provisions of the Cultural and Recreational Development Act provides a means whereby communities may work out their destinies in an orderly manner. While the act allows a levy of up to three mills on real property, it is felt that one mill will be sufficient to organize a useful program in the Champion Community. Skeptics are saying, "Oh, they are starting with one mill, but they will soon have it up to three mills." Who are "they?" This one each can answer for his or her self.

Naturally we are all interested in knowing how much a program like this will cost us personally. Based on a ¼ section assessed at $1850, the levy would amount to $1.85; on higher assessed quarters, at $2320, the levy would of course amount to $2.32; and some of the highest assessed land in the area, it may go as high as $3.00 per quarter section.

One may enquire why is a range of from one to three mills allowed under the act? Assessed valuation play a large part in this. For example, a levy of one mill on the assessment surrounding Champion will raise a sum as large as say a levy of two mills in the area east of Lake McGregor. Thus the need for some elasticity of assessment.

There is some criticism of taxing absentee landlords. Let us consider if it's unfair that these people make this small contribution from earnings derived in the community. After all, it is not reasonable to assume that land will attain greater value in a well organized community than when out in the sticks?

Some large land holders may feel they are asked to contribute out of proportion to others operating on a smaller scale, but in the final analysis, are their earnings not in the same proportion?

It seems that a plan embracing all eventualities and giving everyone an exactly even break is most difficult to devise. Usually we have to settle for the best we have available.

No doubt it will be of some interest to know who handles finances and how a program is operated under the act. In this case the Village of Champion would conceivably look after the finances.

The Act specifies that a committee of seven must be set up, subject to the approval of Vulcan County Council in this case. There must be a representative of the County Council, a representative of the School Committee, and a member of the Champion Village Council. The balance of the committee of whom at least two must be women, can be selected or elected by public meeting. With the exception of the Village and County representatives, these people may not hold office for more than two consecutive years.

The provincial government holds available grants to one third of the money raised to a maximum of $1500 to cover the cost of qualified personnel engaged as instructors, in a great variety of fields.

This does not necessarily mean that these people must be outsiders. It can well be that we have people qualified in a number of fields whom the government would recognize as competent.

What might we expect to achieve with a sum of over $3000.

The Champion Community Hall is presently filling the role the name implies. The local young people use it several times a week on a no charge basis. Heat, light and other services have to be provided.

We have a fine library, which is maintained by the initiative and finances of two few people. Leaders of our youth groups dissipate a lot of their talents and energy struggling with finances. A measure of assistance in this area will allow them to more fully achieve the ends in view. Our skating rink may well be the envy of much larger centres. A realistic fiscal policy for operating this asset is most desirable.

What organizations or groups are eligible for financial assistance?

According to our understanding, any of the groups or organizations in the area deeming themselves eligible, will apply to the committee of seven for assistance. The committee, after careful consideration, will make their recommendations, having regard for all factors, including finances available.

Any individual seeking information on this subject may get same from the Office of the Provincial Secretary under whose direction the Cultural and Recreational Development Act, is administered.

Locally, A. W. Ulrich, George Hummel, Roger Jensen and C. J. Versluys, among others, will be glad to render assistance.

Respectfully submitted,
